

Joey “The Raging Warrior” Gambino

Former UFC Featherweight | CFFC Champion | Active BKFC Fighter

Joey “The Raging Warrior” Gambino is a professional combat athlete whose career is defined by toughness, discipline, technical versatility and the willingness to test himself at the highest levels of competition. Hailing from Saugerties, NY, Joey currently resides in Myrtle Beach, SC, as an active fighter in Bare Knuckle Fighting Championship’s featherweight division.

Gambino’s professional mixed martial arts career began with nine consecutive victories, for an undefeated 9-0 record for promotions across the Northeast and Canada. His early run showcased a formidable skill set, with eight of his nine professional MMA wins by stoppage, including three KOs / TKOs and five submissions.

A major breakthrough came in October 2011, when Gambino stopped Eddie Fyvie with punches in the second round at CFFC 11 to capture the Cage Fury Fighting Championships featherweight title. He followed that performance with an impressive, five-round unanimous-decision victory over Kenny Foster at CFFC 13, keeping his undefeated record and asserting his position as one of the Northeast’s most promising featherweight fighters.

In 2012, Gambino earned a contract with the Ultimate Fighting Championship, entering the organization with a perfect 9-0 professional record. He made his UFC debut on short notice, seizing the opportunity to live out his dream against Steven Siler at UFC on FX 4 in Atlantic City before facing Diego Brandão at UFC 153 in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Gambino battled Brandão through all three rounds before losing by unanimous decision. His two UFC appearances remain the only losses of his professional MMA career, for an official professional MMA record of 9-2. After sustaining a severe injury that would prevent doctors from clearing him to fight for a year, Joey’s UFC contract was cut short, allowing him to pursue other ventures. He went on to build two successful companies while raising a family, coaching wrestling, cornering fellow fighters, and maintaining his fight stamina and skills, both inside and outside the ring.

After nearly 14 years, Gambino returned to professional fighting in January 2026 with a dominating performance in his Bare Knuckle Fighting Championship debut. At BKFC 86 at the Mohegan Sun Arena, he defeated Kurtis Ellis by second-round TKO at 1:08, winning in impressive fashion, and asserting his comeback to the fight arena. Fight commentators have already predicted 2026 and 2027 as defining years for Gambino’s much-anticipated return.
